Art Unit: 1761

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for vegetable starch as the carrying agent, does not reasonably provide enablement for a copolymer carrying agent. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. The specification fails to disclose any examples of copolymers which can be used by the skilled artisan to make applicant's invention. The only suggestion of any copolymer is with reference to a polyethylene product identified by trademark only (pages 3-4). However, since the trademark is arbitrary, and the product represented thereby may change from time to time, applicant's description of the copolymer is non-enabling.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-3 and 5-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Axelrod et al (6,586,027).

Applicant is referred to paragraph no. 5, paper No. 072104.

Art Unit: 1761

5. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Axelrod et al as applied to claims 1-3 and 5-20 above, and further in view of Gluck~~e~~^r et al.

Applicant is referred to paragraph no. 6, Paper no. 072104.

6. Applicant's arguments filed January 21, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Although Axelrod et al is silent as to the amount of copolymer, as applicant argues, Axelrod et al clearly recognizes the need for using a copolymer in a pet chew product. In the absence of unexpected results the claimed amount ^{thereof} is not deemed to be critical~~is~~.

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
